Bio: My name is Maggie Westlin, and I am a senior interior design major with a minor in interdisciplinary studies at the University of Central Arkansas. I am a member of the Schedler honors college, and I am involved with various organizations on campus such as the interior design scholars program, ASID, Student Government Association, and UCA LEAD team. I chose interior design because I truly believe that design impacts lives, and I want to shape the built environment in a way that benefits society as a whole and all of its inhabitants. I love learning about the relationships between people and spaces and ultimately creating spaces that cater to those relationships, ensuring that each client can live in and love the spaces they occupy.
